PRESIDENT HAS GOOD REST, HIS DOCTORS SAY

Statement by Dr. Sawyer, Personal Physician, Indicates Much Improvement

ALLAYS APPREHENSION

Burning of Light in Sick Room Causes Many Persons to Expect Grave News

Presidential Headquarters, Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Aug. 2.—President Harding had "a restful night," his second within 48 hours and his temperature this morning was normal. An informal statement by Brigadier-General Sawyer, his personal physician, gave the executive's condition at 7:55 a. m. as follows: "Temperature 98.6; respiration 36; pulse 110."

Dr. Sawyer's announcement set at rest apprehension which had been expressed by some of the watchers outside the presidential suite several times during the night. These were based on the fact that a light was observed on in the president's bedroom where the bed had burned previously since he came here.

It was learned that Commander Boone, who had spent nearly the entire night in the sick room, had caused the light to be kept burning. The amount of nourishment taken by the chief executive yesterday still was small but as one of the physicians said, "quite sufficient." It continued to consist of milk, soft boiled eggs, a little toast, and fruit juices. Elimination was satisfactory and for the first time was described as "regular."

Another indication of progress was that he received his first visitor in two days, Mrs. E. E. Remsburg, of Santa Ana, Cal., his sister. She, with her daughters, Katherine and Nell Marie, arrived in San Francisco early in the day and shortly before noon she spent several minutes in her brother's room and talked with him as she might tire him.

Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Remsburg said, had stood the strain very well. It was learned from other sources that Brigadier General Sawyer, the president's personal physician, and Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, assistant to Dr. Sawyer, are not unimpaired with the lessening of the strain, reactive effects of the president's illness might be felt by Mrs. Harding, who for the past year has been in far from normal health.

Governor J. Davis, returned from Chicago quite thoroughly convinced, he admits that "his hat is in the ring" as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

"Before I went to Chicago last Sunday I had not given the matter much serious thought," Governor Davis said today. "But what surprised me was that concerning the candidacy announced here by my Kansas friends had preceded me. Even though I did not know it there, I must admit that my hat is in the ring. So it's up to me to acquiesce and do what little I can to help. I feel confident that once the Kansas Democrats know I'm a candidate they will back me up with a solid delegation."

MODERN LOCHINVAR USES TELEGRAPH WIRES TO CLAIM LOCAL GIRL AS BRIDE

Being in the Employe of Uncle Sam William Pearson Does His Proposing in a Business-Like Manner, and Miss Alma Ford, Local Girl, Leaves for Fargo, Object, Matrimony

Young Lochinvar came out of the west, but this Lochinvar came out of Texas.

He used the trusty telegraph wires, too, instead of a trusty steed, but his manner was as courtly and the results as effective.

Miss Alma Ford, stenographer in the office of William Langford, received a telegram yesterday afternoon. It caused excitement. Pretty soon the office was buzzing. For this is what the telegram to Miss Ford said: "Transferred to New York. Leaving Sunday. Will you go as Mrs. William Pearson. Have always loved you. Cannot leave for New York without you. Please wire me Fargo that you are coming. Can be married there Sunday. See Howard if sanity is doubted."

William Pearson. The telegram came from St. Paul. And today Miss Ford is en route to Fargo. They'll be married, today or tomorrow, and their honeymoon will be their trip to the scene of Mr. Pearson's future activities as an inspector of the postoffice department of Uncle Sam.

Those around the office of Mr. Langford knew that Mr. Pearson, who has traveled out of Fargo and has been in Bismarck at times checking

MINISTERS OF BRITAIN LAY BARE ATTITUDE

Say That French and Belgian Note Leaves No Hope for Ruhr Settlement

ANSWER IS REGRETTED

Opening of Discussion on Reparations Question Also Is Held Unlikely

London, Aug. 2.—Great Britain and France stand even further apart in their attitude toward Germany than the British people and probably the world at large have understood.

This seems to be the conclusion drawn from the explanation Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, gave parliament today of the position resulting from the latest British attempt to lay the foundation of a United policy.

The ministers revealed that the latest communication from France and Belgium furnished no material for an allied answer to the German reparations proposal and they brought to light a surprising deadlock in the correspondence. Neither reply, they stated, mentions the draft of the reply to Germany which Great Britain submitted to France and Belgium. Evidently the French and Belgian communications were confined to dealing with Great Britain's covering note or dealt only in generalities.

London, Aug. 2.—(By the A. P.)—Prime Minister Baldwin joined Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, in informing Parliament today that the replies by France and Belgium to the British reparations note seems to hold out no prospect of a settlement in the Ruhr situation in the near future, nor the opening of a discussion regarding reparations.

Great Britain had submitted to the other allies the draft of a joint allied reply to the last German reparations communication and Great Britain attached very great importance to the dispatch of such a reply, the premier said. Neither France nor Belgium, however, had mentioned this reply in the answer to the British communication and Great Britain, to the regret of her government, was unable to find in these responses sufficient material for a joint allied reply to Germany.

Realizing the danger of the European situation sinking into irretrievable ruin, the prolonged negotiations among the allies, the British government, holding that the problems cannot be evaded, the government said, had invited the allies to agree to the publication of their communications in the hope that the documents, together with those prepared by Great Britain, may convince the world of the necessity of prompt and united action.

Recite Efforts The Prime Minister in the House of Commons and Lord Curzon in the House of Lords began their identical addresses by reciting the history of the recent negotiations. They then broke new ground in this manner: "The government drew up a draft reply which they forwarded on July 26 with a covering note to the allied governments."

"In this reply the British government dealt with the various proposals contained in the German memorandum and they expressed the opinion that while nothing should be done which was inconsistent with the stipulations of the treaty of Versailles, advantages would be derived by an examination by impartial experts in cooperation with the reparations commission into Germany's capacity to pay."

"As regards the guarantees offered by the German government the British went on to point out in the draft reply that the economic value of any such guarantees must largely depend upon factors of which the German government, in its memorandum, had made no mention but as stabilizing the mark and balancing the German budget and that no guarantees could be effective unless provision was made for some form of international control over the German financial administration."

WILLING TO DO IT Paris, Aug. 2.—If the British government demands publication of the documents recently exchanged in the Ruhr settlement.

BANK MATTER HEARING SOON

Judge Cooley to Hear Them in Burleigh County Court

Hearing of the cases against the closed banks of North Dakota will not get under way for at least three weeks, according to District Judge Charles M. Cooley, in the first court jurisdiction over these cases by the supreme court July 24.

"There are two complaints filed at the present time," said Judge Cooley in an interview in Fargo. "The first one of these contains 59 names and each one of the parties mentioned must be served with a summons to appear."

"The first hearings cannot be called until 15 days after the summons are served so that this will further delay the bringing of the cases into court. It is not necessary that all 59 people mentioned in the first complaint be served before the hearings start. It will not be possible for the court to get started on these hearings for several weeks."

The jurisdiction extended to Judge Cooley includes the power to both hear and try these cases. When the legal steps necessary have been taken the cases will be given precedence over all other matter to come before the court and they will be presented to a decision as quickly as possible. The cases will be tried in Burleigh county court.

VILLA DEATH DREAM NOW SHATTERED

THE UNUSED VILLA TOMB IN THE CENTER OF AN ANCIENT CEMETERY IN OLD CHIHUAHUA CITY, CAPITAL OF THE NORTH MEXICAN STATE OF THE SAME NAME.

By NEA Service.

Chihuahua, Mexico, Aug. 2.—Panchito Villa wanted to be buried here. He had a dream of being great in death, as well as an outstanding character in life.

And so, at heavy expense and much time, he erected a tomb for himself, one of the most impressive in all Mexico.

But after Villa was murdered recently, officials refused to permit his body to be carried here. He lies in Parral, and the great tomb remains unoccupied.

It stands in a cemetery in the heart of the capital of the state of Chihuahua, and may be seen for miles.

The Rodriguez tomb is just north of it. Scores of others surround it, most of them bearing inscriptions dating back to 1700.

It is possible that some time a future administration will permit transfer of the body. But that seems a remote possibility now.

DICKINSON PLANS PARK ALONG RIVER

Mass Meeting Will Be Held to Discuss Park Board Plan,
Says Citizen

Dickinson is planning to build a city park, C. H. Starke, attorney of that city, said today while in Bismarck on legal business.

A meeting has been called for next Saturday night at which citizens are invited to discuss the matter, he said. It is proposed to build a dam on the Heart river close to Dickinson, provide bathhouses and other equipment to make a real bathing beach, plant trees on the adjacent land and create a picnic grounds. For two years a swimming pool was maintained at a prairie swimming hole, by popular subscription, but this year a good swimming place was found in the Heart river.

Asked concerning the statement of an automobile that $250,000 worth of automobiles had been sold in Dickinson this year, Mr. Starke said that the amount probably was much greater than this. Western North Dakota had a good crop last year and good crop prospects this year produced prosperity and an optimistic spirit, he said.

BURGLARIZE STATION

Washburn, Aug. 2.—The local depot was broken into Monday night, July 22, and the sum of $2.50 in pennies was taken. The only thing rifled was the cash box, which contained the money, stated C. W. Poe, the local agent.

That same night Ralph Diesen had his wheel stolen out of the shed at the Diesen home. The man who stole the wheel and the money are thought to be one and the same.

EXTRA SESSION IS ADVOCATED AT CONFERENCE

Resolutions Adopted at Meeting Held at Fargo to Consider Grain Situation

FOR U. S. CORPORATION Would Revive Organization Which Functioned During War to Handle Surplus

Fargo, Aug. 2.—More than 500 farmers and business men, representing 20 counties in North Dakota, gathered in the Fargo auditorium to consider the crisis confronting the wheat growers, adopted resolutions calling upon President Harding to call an extra session of congress immediately for the purpose of reviving the U. S. Grain Corporation or creating some other governmental agency to handle the wheat crop.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted as reported by a committee of 15, just before the conference adjourned last evening after a day of serious discussion of the predicament in which the northwestern states are in because of the ruinously low price of wheat at the present time. The organization committee was authorized to call a joint conference of states.

Unlike other conferences of this kind, the Fargo meeting did not stop with the adoption of resolutions but took steps to follow up the decision of the conference with thorough organization work. Two additional committees were appointed—one to organize the counties in the state to back up the demand voiced by the meeting here and another to co-operate with similar organizations in other states and to represent North Dakota at any regional or national gatherings of this nature that may be called in the immediate future.

The latter body was designated as an affiliation committee.

The organization committee of 15 members was named as follows:

Organization Committee.

H. C. Halvorson of Minot, chairman; Frank Heimes, Valley City; Walter Reed, Fargo; A. J. Scott, Grand Forks; J. A. Buchanan, Stutsman county; James Gronna, Lakota; George Allen, Pleasant Lake; E. A. Bowman, Kulm; J. E. Reeder, Town; D. W. Motter, Fessenden; Nels Kinkle, Fessenden; A. C. Peterson, New Rockford.

This committee met last evening and organized for the organization drive which the conference urged be started in every county in the state. An executive committee was elected consisting of H. L. Halvorson of Minot, president; Jas. Gronna of Lakota, vice president; R. B. Fuller of Fargo, secretary of the North Dakota Farm Bureau Federation, secretary; the other ex officio members being Frank Heimes, Walter Reed, Gerald P. Nye, A. J. Scott and A. J. McInnes.

The affiliation committee is composed of the following members:

Walter R. Reed, Fargo, chairman; L. S. Ward, Barnes county; Gerald P. Nye, Griggs; J. D. Bacon, Grand Forks; J. E. McElroy, Stutsman; Jas. A. Gronna, Nelson; Hans Blossom, Pierre; C. E. Danielson, Ward; T. S. Hunt, LaMoure; J. B. Reeder, McHenry; T. L. Beiseker, Wells; A. C. Peterson, Eddy; and Gov. R. A. Nesbitt, Burleigh.

The consensus of the meeting was that this movement must not be confined to North Dakota if anything is to be accomplished but must be carried into other states. Almost all the speakers at Tuesday's gathering expressed the opinion that North Dakota alone cannot accomplish anything along this line unless the wheat growing states of the union must work in unison if enough pressure is to be brought to bear upon the president and congress to secure desired action.

Child Crushed Under Boat

Mr. Bishop had been hauling a barrel of water on the stone boat with his tractor and the little child had been in the habit of riding on the boat. This time she fell off and before the father could stop the engine the boat had been dragged over the child, which killed it.

Attorney General Daugherty also arrived during the day, having hurried here from Minneapolis, where the president's illness became alarming.

Discuss Future Plans.

Plans for the future following the restoration of the president's strength continued to be discussed by members of the party, and the plan seemingly most favored at this stage is for a return to Washington by what is commonly known as the overland route as soon as the president is well able to travel.

There was no attempt to fix any date for departure from San Francisco.

Londoners may soon be able to go to the Swiss Alps and back in the same day by a suggested new line of passenger airplanes.

Object, Matrimony

Young Lochinvar came out of the west, but this Lochinvar came out of Texas.

He used the trusty telegraph wires, too, instead of a trusty steed, but his manner was as courtly and the result as effective.

Miss Alma Ford, stenographer in the office of William Langer, received a telegram yesterday afternoon. It caused excitement. Pretty soon the office was buzzing. For this is what the telegram to Miss Ford said:

"Transferred to New York. Leaving Sunday. Will you go as Mrs. William Pearson. Have always loved you. Cannot leave for New York without you. Please wire me Fargo that you are coming. Can be married there Sunday. See Howard if sanity is doubted. William Pearson."

The telegram came from St. Paul. And today Miss Ford is en route to Fargo. They'll be married, today or tomorrow, and their honeymoon will be their trip to the scene of Mr. Pearson's future activities as an inspector of the postoffice department of Uncle Sam.

Those around the office of Mr. Langer knew that Mr. Pearson, who has traveled out of Fargo and has been in Bismarck at times checking up at the local postoffice and attending sessions of the United States District Court, had known Miss Ford. But they didn't know just how close to matrimony they were.

Miss Ford, whose parents live at Binford and are spending the summer at their cottage at a lake near there, has been in the office of Mr. Langer since early in June. She came there from the office of United States District Attorney in Fargo. Mr. Pearson's business frequently brought him to the district attorney's office, and Miss Ford's friends know that things other than the business of running down some violator of the postal laws was discussed there.

Mr. Pearson's home is in Texas, but he has been working in North Dakota with headquarters in Fargo. When he wired Miss Ford he was in St. Paul on business. Mr. Pearson has made many friends in Bismarck on his frequent trips here.

Miss Ford's answer to his telegram was "yes" but in more words than that. Just what the telegram and other telegrams which followed—said was not disclosed by friends who know.

J. R. Kerley, postoffice inspector and close friend of Mr. Pearson, will be best man at the wedding.

FATHER OF LOCAL WOMEN DIES IN S. D.

Mrs. J. J. Dehne and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rickel of Bismarck, have been called to Howard, S. D., because of the death of F. P. Kavaney, father of Mrs. Dehne and Mrs. Rickel. Mr. and Mrs. Rickel went to South Dakota from Neva, Minn., where they are spending the summer.

Mr. Kavaney, born at Freehold, N. J., Sept. 1, 1850, died on Sunday morning, July 22. He was a pioneer of South Dakota, having lived there since 1880. At the age of seven years he came to South Dakota, where he lived a trip from Waukon, Ia., to Pike's Peak with his parents behind an ox team.

Surviving were the following children: W. F. Kavaney of Howard, S. D.; Charles P. Kavaney of Elgin, N. D.; Mrs. Ellen Rickel and Mrs. Celia Dehne of Bismarck; John Kavaney of Fort Benton, Mont.; Henry Kavaney of Minneapolis; Warren Kavaney of Howard, S. D.; and Miss Esther Kavaney of Helena, Mont.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM

Erwin Nye, Who Died, Had Relatives in North Dakota

Minneapolis, Aug. 2.—Erwin Nye, who met his death in a hotel room, lived in Minneapolis up to about a year ago, according to his brother, Wallace G. Nye, former mayor of Minneapolis. A son of the dead man, Claire Nye, is living with relatives here and will leave tonight for Janesville, Wis., to see Mr. Nye's home.

Erwin Nye was 55 years of age, his brother declared. He moved from here a year ago and went to Janesville to enter the printing supply business there. In addition to Claire, two sons live at Copernicus, North Dakota, and a daughter residing at Storm Lake, Iowa, survive.

HIKING TRIP

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 2.—Miss Lila Nelson of Quebec, Canada, and Miss Sadie Kroh of Moscow, Idaho, left Grand Forks this week on a hiking trip to the Pacific coast. Miss Nelson has been employed in the fair association office here and Miss Kroh taught school near Nisswa, Minn. The girls were dressed in khaki knickerbockers and shirts, felt hats and heavy hiking boots. They expect to sleep at farm houses or in hotels and are taking only bags with bare necessities. They will visit relatives en route.

YES, JULY WAS UNUSUAL MONTH; WEATHER BUREAU REPORT SHOWS IT

"My, I'm glad July's over—it certainly has been an unusual month," is an expression heard on the streets yesterday.

Well, let's see—the monthly meteorological summary of the weather bureau was issued today.

The man who said July was hotter than usual is right. The temperature averaged 8.6 degrees daily higher than the average for the last 49 years. But it didn't reach the highest July mark, nor the lowest July mark during that period. Old Sol just kept up a high batting average all month.

The highest in July was 94, on the 8th; the lowest 62, on the first. The highest temperature ever on record in July is 108 and the lowest 32.

The weather record shows that since January 1 the temperature has accumulated an average daily excess over normal of 1.78 degrees.

"It didn't rain very much," some remarked. But it did. It rained 4.77 inches in July, and this was 2 inches more than the average for the month. In 1922 it rained 2.77 inches, in 1921, 2.18 inches, in 1920, 2.72 inches, in 1919, 0.76 inches.

However, the weather bureau shows an accumulated deficiency of precipitation since January 1 of 1.53 inches.

Sunshine, too, was less than normal in July, but at that it wasn't very low. The percentage of sunshine out of a possible 100 percent was 67, which keeps up North Dakota's name as the "Sunshine State." This, however, was 4 percent below normal.

Thunderstorms were frequent. They were recorded on July 4, 5, 7, 14, 18, 22, 25 and 29. There were 8 clear days, 14 partly cloudy and 9 cloudy, and on 11 days of the month rain fell.

MINISTERS OF BRITAIN LAY BARE ATTITUDE

Say That French and Belgian
Note Leaves no Hope for Ruhr Settlement

ANSWER IS REGRETTED

Opening of Discussion on Reparations Question Also
Is Held Unlikely

London, Aug. 2.—Great Britain and France stand even further apart in their attitude toward Germany than the British people and probably the world at large have understood.

This seems to be the conclusion drawn from the explanation Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, gave parliament today of the position resulting from the latest British attempt to lay the foundation of a United policy.

The ministers revealed that the latest communication from France and Belgium furnished no material for an allied answer to the German reparations proposals and they brought to light a surprising deadlock in the correspondence. Neither reply, they stated, mentions the draft of the reply to Germany which Great Britain submitted to France and Belgium. And Belgium communications were confined to dealing with Great Britain's covering note or dealt only in generalities.

London, Aug. 2.—(By the A. P.) Prime Minister Baldwin joined with Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, in informing Parliament today that the replies by France and Belgium to the British reparations note seem to hold out no prospect of a settlement in the Ruhr situation in the near future, nor the opening of a discussion regarding reparations.

Great Britain had submitted to the other allies the draft of a joint allied reply to the last German reparations communication and Great Britain attached very great importance to the dispatch of such a reply, the premier said. Neither France nor Belgium, however, had mentioned this reply in the answer to the British communication and Great Britain, the regret of her government, was unable to find in these responses sufficient material for a joint allied reply to Germany.

Realizing the danger of the European situation sinking into irretrievable ruin during prolonged negotiations among the allies the British government, holding that the problems cannot be evaded, the government said, had invited the allies to agree to the publication of their communications in the hope that the documents, together with those prepared by Great Britain, may convince the world of the necessity of prompt and united action.

Recite Efforts

The Prime Minister in the House of Commons and Lord Curzon in the House of Lords began their identical addresses by reciting the history of the recent negotiation. They then broke new ground in this manner:

"The government drew up a draft reply which they forwarded on July 26 with a covering note to the allied governments."

"In this reply the British government dealt with the various proposals contained in the German memorandum and they expressed the opinion that while nothing should be done which was inconsistent with the stipulations of the treaty of Versailles advantages would be derived by an examination by impartial experts in cooperation with the reparations commission into Germany's capacity to pay."

"As regards the guarantees offered by the German government the British went on to point out in the draft reply that the economic value of any such guarantees must largely depend upon factors of which the German government, in its memorandum, had made no mention but as stabilizing the mark and balancing the German budget and that no guarantees could be effective unless provision were made for some form of international control over the German financial administration."

LUCAS STORE KEEPS POLICY

Same General Conduct of Business to Continue in Future

Business of the A. W. Lucas Company department store, of which A. W. Lucas who died last Friday was head, will be continued under the same name and same general policies, it is understood. During the last year or two Mr. Lucas had delegated much of the active management to department heads. It is expected that a full announcement of the policies will be announced soon after the stockholders' meeting and no change of personnel except as made necessary by the demise of Mr. Lucas is expected.

ITALY WITH BRITISH

London, Aug. 2.—Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary, informed the House of Lords today that Italy had not sent a reply to the recent British reparations note but nevertheless had expressed herself as approving the general Great Britain's proposals.

He regretted that Great Britain could not find in the French and Belgian responses enough material for sending an allied reply to the last German note. Great Britain has attached very great importance to the dispatch of such a reply.

SEES NO HOPE

London, Aug. 2.—Lord Curzon said in the House of Lords today that the French and Belgian replies to the recent British reparations note appeared to hold out no prospect of any settlement in the Ruhr.

WILLING TO DO IT

HUMAN SIDE MUST ALSO BE CONSIDERED

Immigration Cannot Be Based Only as Economic Problem

New York, Aug. 1.—The human side of immigration must be considered along with its economic aspect, if the problem is to be solved, says a report published by the National Immigration Conference Board on "The Immigration Problem in the United States." For reaching changes in the government's immigration policy are recommended.

"It is clear," the report says, "that a wide, comprehensive and humane national immigration policy cannot be based exclusively on the consideration of any immediate special or purely economic aspect of the problem, but must be developed out of broad, far sighted and scientifically grounded views of national and international social and economic progress and human welfare."

The board, after suggesting that inconsistencies arising from the way the present laws are handled should be avoided in the future, says that the state and labor departments fail to work in harmony on the immigration problem. No examination is held abroad to determine mental fitness, the selective function being in the hands of steamship companies, the report adds which undertake the work "to avoid heavy fines and not from any sense of public duty."

"Not enough care is taken to detect mental defectives in ports of entry," the report adds. "Facilities are cramped, and the new law has only added new difficulties."

Some of the theories on which the three percent law was enacted were based on false fears, the report finds. The idea that all Europe was on its way to America in 1917 has been proved incorrect.

There is an increasing tendency among immigrants to remain in this country, the report avers, and statistics are given to bear out the claim.

The government is blamed in the report for slow naturalization of aliens. There is a great need for increased personnel in the naturalization bureau and for a simpler and standardized law. "It is doubtful if one year of restricted immigration has done anything to eliminate this need," the report adds.

Italy is shown to have the most serious emigration problem, but the government there is trying to find a way out.

LIQUOR CASE DECISION IN N. D. UPHELD

Can't Forfeit Bond of Industrial Alcohol User Who Violates Law

St. Louis, Aug. 1.—The government cannot declare forfeited bonds of industrial alcohol users for misuse of alcohol permits, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held today in sustaining the district court of North Dakota in finding for the defendant in the case of the government against John Wandamaker of Fargo.

Wandamaker had obtained a permit to use alcohol in making a scalp lotion and had put up a $2,000 bond. The government charged he misused the permit to violate the prohibition law and attempted to have the bond forfeited. The district court at Fargo held the bond was put up primarily to put up payment in taxes and if Wandamaker had used the permit to violate dry laws he should have been prosecuted criminally.

The application of the law prohibiting the consumption of liquor in Constantinople which was fixed for Aug. 1 has been postponed for another month for the third time.

PAN MOTORS TO BE SOLD

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 1.—Bids were received this morning in district court for the Pan Motor company, sold at public sale under court order. The property was divided into three parcels to facilitate the transaction.

High bids opened by the receiver, E. E. Clark, in district court, totaled $415,500 which, together with $40,000 in cash on hand, are sufficient to pay all undisputed claims in full.

North Dakota soil and a little Indiana seed have produced a field of corn with stalks twelve feet high with ears about five or six feet from the ground.

H. C. Casper, farming five miles south of Bismarck, has a field in which eleven and a half and twelve-foot stalks predominate. While visiting in Indiana last year Mr. Casper noticed some fine white flint corn in the crib of a relative and wondered why such corn could not be raised in North Dakota. He decided to experiment. He brought a little white flint seed with him and planted it this spring.

The result—corn twelve-foot high with two and three ears to the stalk about five or six feet from the ground. If nothing happens to stop the maturing of the corn, it will be some of the finest ever raised in the state.

ONLY RUBBER PLANT IN U.S. IS IN TEXAS

Plant Has No Resemblance to Rubber Trees of Tropical Lands

Alpine, Tex., Aug. 1.—The only rubber producing plant known to grow uncultivated in North America is found in the Big Bend country of both Texas and Mexico, along the border, and the only factory in the United States equipped to make rubber from the raw latex is in Brewster county, Texas. A factory was established at Marathon about 15 years ago, but for the past several years has been idle.

The plant from which rubber may be made is the Guayule, and grows abundantly in this section of the country. Large quantities have been destroyed by prairie fires and neglect, but much continues to grow without attention. Apparently it will thrive in rocky barren soil where nothing else will sprout.

The Guayule has no resemblance to the rubber trees and plants of tropical countries. It grows in the form of a small bush or shrub and when mature is about four feet high resembling slightly the Texas greasewood bush. Its leaves are small, tough looking, and have a slight similarity to those of other rubber producing plants.

The milky juice, known as latex, from which the rubber is made is in a layer under the bark of skin of the shrub, extending from the root of the topmost branch. The latex is separate and distinct from the sap of the Guayule, which flows through the plant.

The method of extracting the latex differs from that used in tropical countries where the trees are tapped, and the juice cozes out. The fluid is pressed from the entire Guayule plant.

INDIANA ASKS JOURGEN OLSON BE RETURNED

Extradition Matter Is Set For Hearing in Court Here
on August 7

INVOLVES BANK CRASH

Hearing on the extradition of Jourgen Olson, Minot financier, will be held on August 7 at 2 p. m. It was announced by A. R. Cox Secretary to Governor Nestos, who received a telegram from H. A. Bippus, prosecuting attorney of Warrick county, Indiana, that the date was satisfactory. The date was fixed after the request for Olson's extradition, made several months ago by Governor McGraw of Indiana and withdrawn, was renewed, it was added. Mr. Olson's attorneys asked for a hearing and he will resist extradition to Indiana to face charges of conspiracy to commit a felony.

Olson was indicted by an Indiana grand jury with John C. Effinger and Arthur H. Halverson on November 1, 1920, after the failure of the Farmers Bank of Newburgh, Indiana. It was alleged that the three conspired to cause Effinger and Halverson, employees of the bank, to defraud the bank, in which, it was said, Olson was a majority stockholder, of $89,000.

Judgment approximating $88,000 has been ordered by Judge John C. Lowe in district court in deciding in favor of the plaintiff, the action brought by the St. Paul Trust & Savings bank of St. Paul against Jourgen Olson, et al of Minot. The verdict decided upon by the court is the full amount asked by the plaintiff, and represents the sum involved in a foreclosure action on $800,000 of land situated in Ward and Renville counties. The defendant had interposed a counterclaim of $100,000 for alleged impairment of his credit facilities.

The securities claimed by the plaintiff in the foreclosure action consisted of bank stock, commission mortgages and four deeds covering 6,800 acres of land in the two counties. While not denying the debt, nor the fact that he gave the commission mortgages and bank stock as collateral security to the loan, Olson contended that he did not give the deeds to the land as security, and intended, he testified, he gave the deeds to the plaintiff with the idea of floating a bond issue ranging between $300,000 and $750,000, and claims that the plaintiff promised to float the issue, but failed to do so, keeping the deeds and having them filed in violation of what he claims was the existing agreement.

By reason of the deeds being recorded, Olson alleged in his counterclaim to the extent of $100,000. Representing the plaintiff were Flynn, Traynor & Traynor, Devils Lake, and W. H. Oppenheimer of the firm of Moore, Oppenheimer, Peterson & Dickinson of St. Paul, and counsel for Olson was McGee & Goss of this city, and Palda & Aaker represented subsequent lienholders involved as defendants in the action.

SUPREME COURT

Rolette State Bank, a corporation, of Rolette, N. D., Plaintiff and Respondent, v. Minnesota Elevator Company, a foreign corporation, Defendant and Appellant.

Syllabus. 1. A purchaser of property covered by a chattel mortgage takes it subject to the lien thereof, and the exercise by him of dominion over the property inconsistent with and in defiance of the rights of the mortgagee therein, constitutes a conversion.

2. Where a mortgagee of personal property consents to a sale thereof on condition that the purchaser pay the purchase price to the extent of his mortgage claim to him, the mortgagee does not thereby waive his lien; and where the purchaser fails to comply with the condition, denies the lien, and claims to hold the property discharged from the mortgage, the mortgagee may maintain an action for conversion against him.

3. A demand followed by a refusal to deliver personal property is but evidence of conversion; and where obviously such demand would be unavailing, none need be made before bringing an action for conversion. More v. Burger, et al, 15 N. D. 345, 107 N. W. 200.

4. The measure of damages for the wrongful conversion of personal property is either, (1) the value of the property at the time of conversion with interest from that time; or, (2) if the action has been prosecuted with reasonable diligence, the highest market value of the property at any time between the conversion and the verdict without interest, at the option of the injured party; and, (3) a fair compensation for the time and money properly expended in pursuit of the property. Section 7168, C. L. 1913.

5. Under the provisions of Article 24, Chapter 42 of the Political Code, as amended, the lien of a county for seed grain and feed furnished is cast only on the crop produced from such seed and feed.

6. Section 7624, C. L. 1913, providing, "Upon retiring for deliberation the jury may take with them all papers which have been received as evidence in the cause except depositions or copies of such papers as ought not in the opinion of the court to be taken from the person having them in possession," is permissive only and not mandatory; and except in case of an abuse of discretion, the action of the trial court in not sending papers received in evidence out with the jury will not be held erroneous. Women Are Sheiks and Men Wear Veils In Land of Most Hen-Pecked Husbands

By NEA Service.
Paris, Aug. 2.—Here's news for American henpecked husbands:

There are some men even worse off than they.

For out in the Sahara Desert there is a tribe in which the men are forced to wear veils and the women are the sheiks! That in a land where every man is supposed to be a masterful hero!

For centuries they had been hiding behind the skirts of their wives, and they were able to keep the fact of their subjugation from the world. But finally a woman discovered their secret.

She is Mme. Citroen, wife of the French automobile manufacturer who accompanied him on his motor caravan trip across the desert. Says she:

"The tribe, known as Tuaregs, live on the Ahaggar Plateau in the heart of the Sahara.

"It was the Tuaregs, and the men are the weaker sex—indeed, little more than slaves.

"There a woman never lies about her age. No man dares ask her how old she is. And even if he would, she probably couldn't tell him. For there is no such thing as age in the land of the Tuaregs.

"I asked one how old she was. She looked at me with scorn and said: 'We'll see when we die. There's no time before.' Time slips by so quickly, she explained, that there is no use wasting any trying to figure out the years.

"Whether it is this carefree spirit, or the climate, I don't know. But the women there are remarkably beautiful, and audaciously domineering.

"All other women of the desert are forced to wear veils over their faces. But not the Tuaregs. They make the men wear them instead.

"This position of the women is extraordinary, for the tribe is Moslem, and the tenets of the Islam religion teach that women are inferior creatures.

But there is one advantage which the Tuareg hen-pecked husband has over the American. He never has to wash the dishes.

"For," says Mme. Citroen, "there are no dishes to wash. When one is hungry he just walks out and pulls a bunch of dates from a palm tree and has his fill. These dates are the only food.

The divorce law is easy among the Tuaregs. All that a man need do when he wants to get rid of his wife, is to tell the Caid, his chief, to send his wife away and the divorce is complete. But while that is the law of the land, it is not the practice. The women have their men too well trained to take any chance."

While the husbands are timid before their wives, they are as fearless as any other men of the desert when they leave their homes. For centuries these strange riders of the sand with their veils worn at all times have withstood every intrusion. In 1890 when the French began consolidating their vast African possessions, they fought the Tuaregs and lost many men in the campaign. They were only subdued when Marshal Joffre, then commandant, took a hand in the fight.

But even in their defeat they kept their secrets. No photos had ever been taken of them, until Mme. Citroen and her party, in armored cars, penetrated the desert and won the confidence of the woman sheiks.

NOTHING IN A NAME? WRONG! LOOK AT THESE VOGEL BOYS

THE THREE VOGEL BOYS: ALFRED TENNYSON, POET; HERBERT SPENCER, ORATOR, AND RICHARD WAGNER, PHYSICIAN-TO-BE.

Brooklyn, Aug. 2.—Did you pick the right names for your children? If a boy is named after a great man will he unconsciously emulate his namesake?

A Brooklyn couple, trusting and hopeful, didn't want to make a mistake so they named their boys Alfred Tennyson, Herbert Spencer and Richard Wagner. And the children have lived up to their names! Or, two of them did anyway.

The three were graduated with honors from the College of the City of New York at the same time. Alfred Tennyson has become a poet and Herbert Spencer has reduced oratory to a most exact science. But Richard Wagner isn't a musical genius. He has an ambition to become a doctor.

But his parents think Richard may yet run true to form. He is only 14, and received his diploma in the preparatory school of the college. Herbert is 18 and Alfred is 17.

Says Alfred (springing a poem without a moment's preparation): "Those interviews annoy me. Like the flies in summer's heat. For my daring fails to buoy me. And my courage beats retreat. When reporters call to see me, Though I'm ill at ease and gloomy Do I cry, 'Away and leave me?' 'Fry, his rather, 'Interview me'." Chimes in Herbert Spencer (who has won prizes for oratory): "Well put, but when in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for a young man to embark upon his career, let him be wary lest

Breaks in Richard Wagner: "Say you're both wrong. Poetry and oratory aren't in it with medicine. Trouble was averted when the parents dove into sight. Father gives mother the credit for the children's success; she, in turn, puts it up to father."

"He named them," she says. "She trained them," he retorts. "Together. We helped our boys help themselves. We didn't wait on them inactively nor do their lessons for them. They developed because they had to dig out things for themselves. Two great factors make for happiness; education and right home life. We tried to give them both."

The combination worked. Alfred Tennyson has won many prizes for his poetry and prose, has had some published, and expects to make his living and fame writing verses when he finishes his studies. Herbert Spencer is going to Harvard to study law and young Richard Wagner expects to go to the Cornell medical school when he becomes old enough.

Oh, their family name? Vogel. "Picked for us by our ancestors," says the family.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

The Pee Wees are first cousins to the Little Pezzers and live in Pee Wee Land, under the burdocks. One day the Fairy Queen received a letter. It said:

"Dear Queen:
"Could you and would you please to help me?"

"My subjects have learned to ride on lightning bugs and since then I haven't had one peaceful minute. They say 'uneasy lies the head that wears a crown,' and I'll have you know, Queen, that although I wear my crown day and night, I never get a chance to lay my head anywhere, with all my worries."

"I never know where any of my subjects are at night. The only place I know is where they are not. That place is Pee Wee Land."

"As soon as night comes they jump on lightning bugs and ride away, the whole kaboodle of them. And the trouble they get into is something fierce."

"Tiny Toe fell into a custard pie sitting on Mrs. Brown's window sill to cool. And although he's a good swimmer, the custard set and he did, too!"

"Wee Willie got stuck on some fly paper—or his clothes did—and the only way his friends could save him was to peel him out of his clothes and bring him home the way he was."

"Could you—would you please to help me?"
"Your faithful subject,"
"SNOOKUMS."
"King of the Pee Wees."
"Nancy and Nick!" called the Fairy Queen, smiling. "It seems to me that this is a job for you and your magic magic shoes."

Smash New Jewett In Auto Wreck

A new Jewett touring car owned by Joe Wirtz of this city and driven by J. Reisenauer, Dickinson, was completely wrecked in an accident on the new graded road fill beyond the court house north of the city that it will have to be rebuilt. Reisenauer, driving, passed an Overland, on the grade while running at a high rate of speed, jammed through the fence at the side of the road, the car turning over a couple of times in the drop of ten feet into the ditch and then striking against a telephone pole which was snapped off by the force of the blow. Neither of the two men in the car sustained more than a few minor scratches.

WOULD HAVE CITY LICENSE FOR HOTELS

Fargo, Aug. 2.—Passage of a city ordinance or a state law requiring licensing of hotels was suggested by Attorney General George Shafer here yesterday as a means of stopping alleged immoral practices in certain Fargo hotels.

"It is not possible to prosecute hotel owners for the acts of people who stop in the hotels unless they are parties to the violations of the laws, themselves," said Mr. Shafer. "It is possible to control the business privilege, however, and to withhold the right to operate a hotel where law violations take place."

Mr. Shafer made his statement in response to information that a city ordinance was about to be presented to the commission to provide that hotel keepers should be licensed and that the licenses should be withdrawn at once upon proof that immoral or illegal acts were being committed at the hotels.

The reason this ordinance will be proposed is to curb practices in certain institutions in Fargo which cannot be stopped under the present laws, it is said.

"A city ordinance would be preferable to a state law, I believe," said Mr. Shafer. "There are points in favor of both but the city regulation would be effective and could be administered with less delay."

"It is easy to avoid prosecution under the present regulations by pleading ignorance of the conditions in the hotel and little attention has been directed toward checking the proprietor who can exercise strict control over his guests. To feel the necessity, I think some provision of this character would be effective."

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT GOES SOME HIGHER

Influenced by Unfavorable
Crop Reports of Northwest

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Influenced by unfavorable crop reports from the Northwest wheat averaged a little higher in price today during the early dealings. Buying, however, lacked spirit and gains failed to hold well. Receipts here continued liberal. Opening quotations which ranged from 1.4 to 1.2 cent lower with September 97-7-8 to 98 and December 1.00-7-8 cents to 1.01 were followed by a moderate advance and then something of a reaction.

Absence of sustained buying brought about weakness in wheat prices today after a transient early advance. Talk was current that France was selling back wheat bought in the United States. The market closed unsettled, 1/2 to 3/4 to 1 cent net lower, with September 97 1/2 to 97 3/4, and December 1.00 1/2 to 1.00 3/4.

leged immoral practices in certain Fargo hotels.

"It is not possible to prosecute hotel owners for the acts of people who stop in the hotels unless they are parties to the violations of the laws, themselves," said Mr. Shafer. "It is possible to control the business privilege, however, and to withhold the right to operate a hotel where law violations take place.

Mr. Shafer made his statement in response to information that a city ordinance was about to be presented to the commission to provide that hotel keepers should be licensed and that the licenses should be withdrawn at once upon proof that immoral or illegal acts were being committed at the hotels.

The reason this ordinance will be proposed is to curb practices in certain institutions in Fargo which cannot be stopped under the present laws, it is said.

"A city ordinance would be preferable to a state law, I believe," said Mr. Shafer. "There are points in favor of both but the city regulation would be effective and could be administered with less delay.

It is easy to avoid prosecution under the present regulations by pleading ignorance of the conditions in the hotel and little attention has been directed toward checking the proprietor who can exercise strict control over his guests if he feels the necessity. I think some provision of this character would be effective."

MARKET NEWS WHEAT GOES SOME HIGHER

Influenced by Unfavorable
Crop Reports of Northwest

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Influenced by unfavorable crop reports from the Northwest wheat averaged a little higher in price today during the early dealings. Buying, however, lacked spirit and gains failed to hold well. Receipts here continued liberal. Opening quotations which ranged from 1-4 to 1-2 cent lower with September 97 7-8 to 98 and December $1.00 7-8 cents to $1.01 were followed by a moderate advance and then something of a reaction.

Absence of sustained buying brought about weakness in wheat prices today after a transient early advance. Talk was current that France was calling back wheat bought in the United States. The market closed unsettled, 1/2 to 3/4 to 1 cent net lower, with September $1.00 1/4 to 97 1/4 and December $1.00 1/4 to $1.00 1/2.

Lavine Aldrich was born to Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Aldrich in the state of Michigan on May 5th, 1855. She came to North Dakota with her husband in the year 1890, locating in Wells county, and later moved to McLean county in 1900. Until the last few months she had lived continuously with her husband, where they ran the hotel at Painted Woods Lake, but the sickness from which she finally died necessitated her removal to the Wilson home. During the long years they have been at Painted Woods the elderly couple have made a great many friends, by whom she will be sadly missed.

Besides the husband Mrs. Avery is survived by one son, Bert, who is journeying in the East at present and four grandsons, born to her daughter Anna, who died in Canada some four years ago.

Stark County Slashes Budget In Appropriation

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 2.—Given its final reading by the county commissioners Monday morning, July 22 the Stark county budget was slashed $10,000 when the emergency fund appropriation was stricken out. Some of this amount was added to other funds but will lower the budget by several thousand.

At the same time the county board fixed the tax levy for the coming year at approximately $187,500 which will be divided as follows: County general fund levy, $57,000; road and bridges, $47,000; special road fund for work in unorganized townships in all three commissioner districts, $15,000; sinking fund for $250,000; county bond issue, $22,500; interest on county bonds, $14,250; seed grain bonds, $5,750. The levy is approximately the same as that for the year just closed.

The balance of the fund needed to operate the county government for the coming year will be derived from back taxes due the county and seed and feed loans which are yet to be paid. The commissioners estimate that about $30,000 will be collected in back taxes during the fiscal year and approximately $10,000 on seed and feed loans.

In giving the budget its final reading several of the items were changed from the original proposals. This was due to the fact that the emergency fund upon which the county has drawn in the past was stricken out. In consequence those funds upon which there was the greatest drain were increased accordingly.

INDIANA ASKS JOURGEN OLSON BE RETURNED

Extradition Matter Is Set For Hearing in Court Here
on August 7

INVOLVES BANK CRASH

Hearing on the extradition of Jourgen Olson, Minot financier, will be held on August 7 at 2 p. m., it was announced by A. B. Cox Secretary to Governor Nestor, who received a telegram from H. A. Bippus, prosecuting attorney of Warrick county, Indiana, that the date was satisfactory. The date was fixed after the request for Olson's extradition, made several months ago by Governor McCray of Indiana and withdrawn, was renewed, it was added. Mr. Olson's attorneys asked for a hearing and he will resist extradition to Indiana to face charges of conspiracy to commit a felony.

Olson was indicted by an Indiana grand jury with John C. Effinger and Arthur H. Halverson on November 1, 1920, after the failure of the Farmers Bank of Newburgh, Indiana. It was alleged that the three conspired to cause Effinger and Halverson, employees of the bank, to defraud the bank, in which, it was said, Olson was a majority stockholder, of $89,000.

Judgment approximating $38,000 has been ordered by Judge J. C. Lowe in district court in deciding in favor of the plaintiff in the action brought by the St. Paul Trust & Savings bank of St. Paul against Jourgen Olson, et al of Minot. The verdict decided upon by the court is the full amount asked by the plaintiff, and represents the sum involved in a foreclosure action on 6,800 acres of land, situated in and near the county. The defendant had obtained a counterclaim of $100,000 for alleged impairment of his credit facilities.

The securities claimed by the plaintiff in the foreclosure action consisted of bank stock, commission mortgages and four deeds covering 6,800 acres of land in the two counties.

While not denying the debt, nor the fact that he gave the commission mortgages and bank stock as collateral security to the loan, Olson contended that he did not give the deeds to the land as security and instead, he testified, he gave the deeds to the plaintiff with the idea of floating a bond issue ranging between $300,000 and $750,000, and claims that the plaintiff promised to float the issue, but failed to do so, keeping the deeds and having them recorded in violation of what he claims was the existing agreement.

By reason of the deeds being recorded, Olson alleged in his counterclaim to the complaint, his credit was damaged to the extent of $100,000.

Representing the plaintiff were Flynn, Traynor & Traynor of Devils Lake, and W. H. Oppenheimer of the firm of Moore, Oppenheimer, Peterson & Dickinson of St. Paul, and counsel for Olson were McGee, Goss of this city, and Faldes & Aaker representing subsequent lienholders involved as defendants in the action.

Women Are Sheiks and Men Wear Veils In Land of Most Hen-Pecked Husbands

By NEA Service.

Paris, Aug. 2.—Here's news for American hen-pecked husbands:

There are some men even worse off than they.

For out in the Sahara Desert there is a tribe in which the men are forced to wear veils and the women are the sheiks! That in a land where every man is supposed to be a masterful hero!

For centuries they had been hiding behind the skirts of their wives, and they were able to keep the fact of their subjugation from the world. But finally a woman discovered their secret.

She is Mme. Citroen, wife of the French automobile manufacturer who accompanied him on his motor caravan trip across the desert. Says she:

"The tribe, known as Tuaregs, live on the Ahaggar Plateau in the heart of the Sahara.

"The women are the bosses; and the men are the weaker sex—indeed, little more than slaves.

"There a woman never lies about her age. No man dares ask her how old she is. And even if he would, she probably couldn't tell him. For there is no such thing as age in the land of the Tuaregs.

"I asked one how old she was. She looked at me with scorn and said: 'We'll see when we die. There's no need before.' Time slips by so quickly, she explained, that there is no use wasting any trying to figure out the years.

"Whether it is this carefree spirit, or the climate, I don't know. But the women there are remarkably beautiful, and audaciously domineering.

NOTHING IN A NAME? WRONG! LOOK AT THESE VOGEL BOYS

THE THREE VOGEL BOYS: ALFRED TENNYSON, POET; HERBERT SPENCER, ORATOR, AND RICHARD WAGNER, PHYSICIAN-TO-BE.

Brooklyn, Aug. 2.—Did you pick the right names for your children? If a boy is named after a great man will he unconsciously emulate his namesake?

A Brooklyn couple, trusting and hopeful, didn't want to make a mistake so they named their boys Alfred Tennyson, Herbert Spencer and Richard Wagner. And the children have lived up to their names! Or, two of them did anyway.

The three were graduated with honors from the College of the City of New York at the same time. Alfred Tennyson has become a poet and Herbert Spencer has reduced oratory to a most exact science. But Richard Wagner isn't a musical genius. He has an ambition to become a doctor.

But his parents think Richard may yet run true to form. He is only 14, and received his diploma in the preparatory school of the college. Herbert is 18 and Alfred is 17.

Says Alfred (springing a poem without a moment's preparation): "Those interviews annoy me. Like the flies in summer's heat. For my daring fails to buoy me. And my courage beats retreat. When reporters call to see me, Though I'm ill at ease and gloomy. Do I cry, 'Away and leave me?' Nay, 'tis rather, 'Interview me!'" Chimes in Herbert Spencer (who has won prizes for oratory): "Well put, but when in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for a young man to embark upon his career, let him be wary lest he be named after a poet."

Breaks in Richard Wagner: "Say you're both wrong. Poetry and oratory aren't in it with medicine. Trouble was averted when the parents hove into sight. Father gives mother the credit for the children's success; she, in turn, puts it up to father."

"He named them," she says. "She trained them," he retorts. Together, "We helped our boys help themselves. We didn't teach them. They developed because they had to dig out things for themselves. Two great factors make for happiness; education and right home life. We tried to give them both."

The combination worked. Alfred Tennyson has won many prizes for his poetry and prose, has had some published, and expects to make his living and fame writing verses when he finishes his studies. Herbert Spencer is going to Harvard to study law and young Richard Wagner expects to go to the Cornell medical school when he becomes old enough.

Oh, their family name? Vogel. "Picked for us by our ancestors," says the family.

The Pee Wees are first cousins to the Little Peewees and live in Pee Wee Land, under the burdock.

One day the Fairy Queen received a letter. It said:

"Dear Queen:

"Could you and would you please to help me.

"My subjects have learned to ride on lightning bugs and sleep then-I haven't had one peaceful minute.

"They say 'uneasy lies the head that wears a crown' and I'll have you know, Queen, that although I wear my crown day and night, I never get a chance to lay my head anywhere, with all my worries.

"I never know where any of my subjects are at night. The only place I know is where they are not. That place is Pee Wee Land.

"As soon as night comes they jump on lightning bugs and ride away, the whole kaboodle of them.

"And the trouble they get into is something fierce.

"Tiny Toe fell into a custard pie sitting on Mrs. Brown's window sill to cool. And although he's a good swimmer, the custard set and he did, too!

"Wee Willie got stuck on some fly paper—or his clothes did—and the only way his friends could save him was to peel him out of his clothes and bring him home the way he was.

"Could you—would you please to help me?"

"Your faithful subject,"

"SNOOKUMS,

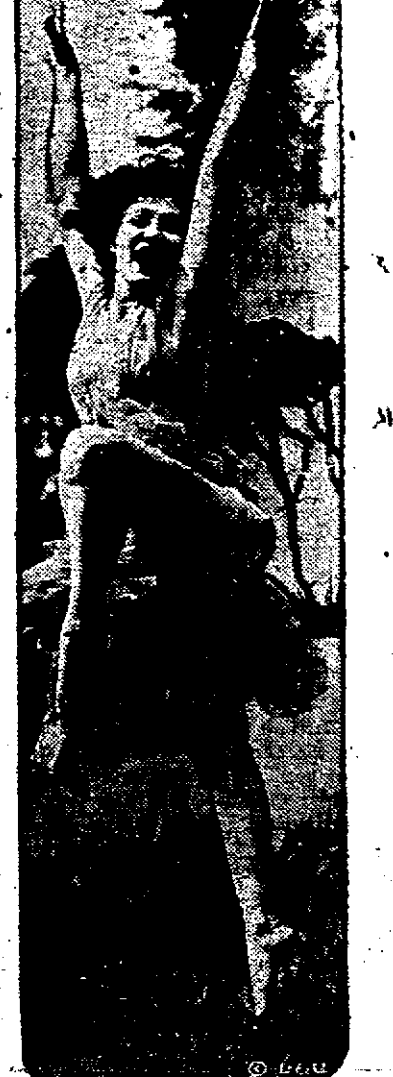

"King of the Pee Wees."

"Nancy and Nick!" called the Fairy Queen, smiling. "It seems to me that this is a job for you and your magic magic shoes."

A new Jewett touring car owned by Joe Wirtz of this city and driven by J. Reisenauer, Dickinson, was so completely wrecked in an accident on the new, graded road fill beyond the court house north of the city that it will have to be rebuilt. Reisenauer, driving, passed an Overland, on the grade, while running at a high rate of speed, jammed through the fence at the side of the road, the car turning over a couple of times in the drop of ten feet into the ditch—and then striking against telephone poles which were snapped off by the force of the blow. Neither of the two men in the car sustained more than a few minor scratches.

SUPREME COURT

Rolette State Bank, a corporation, of Rolette, N. D., Plaintiff and Respondent, v. Minnesota Elevator Company, a foreign corporation, Defendant and Appellant.

Syllabus: 1. A purchaser of property covered by a chattel mortgage takes it subject to the lien thereof, and the exercise by him of dominion over the property inconsistent with and in defiance of the rights of the mortgagee therein, constitutes a conversion.

2. Where a mortgagee of personal property consents to a sale thereof on condition that the purchaser pay the purchase price to the extent of his mortgage claim to him, the mortgagee does not thereby waive his lien; and where the purchaser fails to comply with the condition, denies the lien, and claims to hold the property discharged from the mortgage, the mortgagee may maintain an action for conversion against him.

3. A demand followed by a refusal to deliver personal property is but evidence of conversion; and where obviously such demand would be unavailing, none need be made before bringing an action for conversion. More v. Burger, et al, 15 N. D. 345, 107 N. W. 200.

4. The measure of damages for the wrongful conversion of personal property is either, (1) the value of the property at the time of conversion with interest from that time; or, (2) if the action has been prosecuted with reasonable diligence, the highest market value of the property at any time between the conversion and the verdict without interest, at the option of the injured party; and, (3) a fair compensation for the time and money properly expended in pursuit of the property. Section 7168, C. L. 1913.

5. Under the provisions of Article 24, Chapter 42 of the Political Code, as amended, the lien of a county for seed grain and feed furnished, is cast only on the crop produced from such seed and feed.

6. Section 7624, C. L. 1913, providing, "Upon raising for delinquency the jury may take with them all papers which have been received as evidence in the cause except depositions or copies of such papers as ought not in the opinion of the court to be taken from the person having them in possession," is permissive only and not mandatory, and except in case of an abuse of discretion, the action of the trial court in not sending papers received in evidence out with the jury will not be held erroneous.

A separate panel of pleats flows from beneath the long b.b. front of the dress on the left. This panel may be of the same color material or a contrasting color.

The dress on the right has a short apron skirt that reaches above the knees. Pleats end it on one side; the other side is plain. The skirt has an inset of pleats to carry out the idea.

SCOUTS ENJOY YELLOWSTONE

Delighted With Beautiful Scenery and Black Bears

Letter from Eagle Boy Scouts on trip to west, follows:

"Saturday, July 28.—Along the Shoshone. We awoke in the gully where we had pitched our tents the night before. There was some worry for fear it would drain and wash into the river. After breakfast we rode up to the Shoshone Dam. Here we stopped till after dinner. One of the cars being repaired. We wandered all around the dam, taking pictures, and admiring the immensity of the mountains. Here a record mail was sent out, the boys writing nearly thirty cards and letters. After dinner we made good time to the park entrance. Here we were looked over, our names taken and our finger prints all were taken, so strict are they in the park. We drove on over fine roads for fifteen miles to Turpid lake. Here we enjoyed the sulphur smells, and the smells of supper. We pitched our camps and had a fine time around the camp fire singing songs, and telling stories.

"Sunday, July 29.—By morning we reached the Yellowstone Park. Cool in the evening. Today being Sunday we took a hold Sunday service and did a little washing in some all-ready heated water. Soon after lunch we moved on to Lake Junction. This is a large camp with fine facilities.

"Monday, July 30.—In Yellowstone Park—Before packing up for the day's drive a good breakfast of pancakes and donated trout was eaten, and a stiff inspection gone through. We rolled tents in last time, and drove on, turning out the Canon Road. We stopped at the Hot Spring. We saw the Mud Geyser and Dragon's Mouth. Then we drove on through Hayden Valley to Canon Junction. Here we had a little difficulty locating the camp, and drove up just as it began to rain. It was short and snappy, and the tents were soon up. After lunch the scouts scattered seeing the sights. We took in Crystal Falls, Upper and Lower Falls, wandering along the canyon looking at the scenery from Loop-out Point, Inspiration Point, and many other points that we saw. The scenery surely is great. We have seen the Black Hills, the Big Horn mountains, the Shoshone Canyon, and all points in between, and this surely is a world beater. After hiking to Inspiration Point, the scouts fondly named it Perspiration Point, and several were in a state of prostration when some cars picked them up.

Pictures have been taken of different animals, including a black bear, and several wood chucks. There was great excitement and interest in camp this morning when a young black bear walked into camp, and licked out a jam pail. We have found that they like pancakes also. Several new birds have been seen, some of which have been identified, including the Canadian Jay and the Osprey.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MISS SMITH TO BE FRIDAY

(Contributed)
Bismarck has been saddened by many deaths lately and the passing of Miss Margaret Smith at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith on Wednesday is a personal loss to all who knew her.

Margaret has grown to sweet womanhood in this city, attending the grades and graduating from the high school with the class of 1921. Her ability as a student was evident as she won scholastic honors, being valedictorian of her class. She took part in all high school activities, contributing especially in a musical way, her ability as a pianist being well known in musical circles.

She was a member of the Presbyterian church and was loved by all who knew her, her sweetness of disposition, her unselfishness, her unflinching love for others, has been manifest during these weeks of sickness. Most of her friends can never know how bravely she fought during these seven weeks, and only her family and those in attendance can realize how patiently and valiantly she bore her sickness, and tried to make it easier for those about her.

The funeral will be held at the Smith home on Sixth Street at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. L. R. Johnson will have charge of the services and Mr. Halverson will sing. Mrs. E. O. Railback, of Billings, Mont., sister of Mr. Smith, arrived today.

APRON SKIRT MAKES SMART FRONT DRESS TRIMMING

The apron skirt has come as the smart front trimming for dresses. Here are two variations of the apron skirt style—the long and the short of it, as it were.

A separate panel of pleats flows from beneath the long bib front of the dress on the left. This panel may be of the same color material or a contrasting color.

The dress on the right has a short apron skirt that reaches above the knees. Pleats end it on one side; the other side is plain. The skirt has an inset of pleats to carry out the idea.

The back of the apron dress is usually perfectly straight, uninterrupted by trimming of any kind.

SCOUTS ENJOY YELLOWSTONE

Delighted With Beautiful Scenery and Black Bears

Letter from Eagle Boy Scouts on trip to west, follows:

"Saturday, July 28.—Along the Shoshone. We awoke in the gully where we had pitched our tents the night before. There was some worry for fear it would drain and wash into the river. After breakfast we rode up to the Shoshone Dam. Here we stopped till after dinner. One of the cars being repaired. We wandered all around the dam, taking pictures, and admiring the immensity of the mountains. Here a record mail was sent out, the boys writing nearly thirty cards and letters. After dinner we made good time to the park entrance. Here we were looked over, our names taken and our finger print all were taken, so strict are they in the park. We drove on over fine roads for fifteen miles to Turpid lake. Here we enjoyed the sulphur smells, and the smells of supper. We pitched our camps and had a fine time around the camp fire singing songs, and telling stories.

"Sunday, July 29.—By morning we realized the Yellowstone Park was cool in the evenings. Today being Sunday we took it easy, held Sunday services and did a little washing in some all ready heated water. Soon after lunch we moved on to Lake Junction. This is a large camp with fine facilities.

"Monday, July 30.—In Yellowstone Park—Before packing up for the day's drive a good breakfast of pancakes and donated trout was eaten, and a still inspection gone through. We rolled tents in first time, and drove on, turning onto the Canon Road. We stopped at the Hot Spring, saw the Mud Geyser and Dragon's Mouth. Then we drove on through Hayden Valley to Canon Junction. Here we had a little difficulty locating the camp, and drove up just as it began to rain. It was short and snappy, and the tents were soon up. After lunch the scouts scattered seeing the sights. We took in Crystal Falls, Upper and Lower Falls, wandering along the canyon looking at the scenery from Loop-Over Point, Inspiration Point, and every other point that we came to. And the scenery sure is great. We have seen the Black Hills, the Big Horn mountains, the Shoshone Canyon, and all points in between, and this surely is a world beater. After hiking to Inspiration Point, the scouts fondly named it Persipoint, and several were in a state of prostration when some cars picked them up.

Pictures have been taken of different animals, including a black bear, and several wood chucks. There was great excitement and interest in camp this morning when a young black bear walked into camp, and picked out a jam pail. We have found that they like pancakes also. Several new birds have been seen, some of which have been identified, including the Canadian Jay and the Osprey.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MISS SMITH TO BE FRIDAY

(Contributed)

Bismarck has been saddened by many deaths lately and the passing of Miss Margaret Smith at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith on Wednesday is a personal loss to all who knew her.

Margaret has grown to sweet womanhood this year, attending the high school and graduating from the high school with the class of 1921. Her ability as a student was evident as she won scholastic honors, being valedictorian of her class. She took part in all high school activities, contributing especially in a musical way, her ability as a pianist being well known in musical circles.

She was a member of the Presbyterian church and was loved by all who knew her, her sweetness of disposition, her unselfishness, her unflinching love for others, has been manifest during these weeks of sickness. Most of her friends can never know how bravely she fought during these seven weeks, and only her family and those in attendance can realize how patiently and valiantly she bore her sickness, and tried to make it easier for those about her.

The funeral will be held at the Smith home on Sixth Street at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. L. R. Johnson will have charge of the services and Mr. Halverson will sing. Mrs. E. O. Railback, of Billings, Mont., sister of Mr. Smith, arrived today.

AN EXTRA SESSION
Whenever a great "movement" springs forth there is always in the minds of those who know something of politics the question of whether the vociferous appeals and demands spring from a studied conviction or from a keen scent of possible political advantage. Just now price fixing on wheat by Congress is the "movement."

An interesting conversation took place in Bismarck yesterday between two men from different parts of western North Dakota. One of them said that he had talked with many farmers and found no demand for price-fixing, and he asked the question: "Where does this demand for price-fixing come from, anyway?" If there is any price-fixing, he said, the farmer would rather have it on the things he buys than on the things he sells. The other took the position that the demand emanated from the farmers and was voiced by political leaders. He said the farmers realized that price-fixing was a dangerous precedent as a general rule but that in the emergency it was the only means to remove the disparity between the sale price of his produce and the cost price of his necessities.

Senator Robert M. La Follette is against an extra session of Congress and price-fixing. Senator Brookhart of Iowa, Senators Frazier, Johnson and Shipstead in meeting decided to call upon the President for an extra session of Congress to fix a minimum price on wheat. A meeting yesterday in Fargo made demands somewhat along the same line, though chiefly with the idea of reviving the United States Grain Corporation to purchase the wheat surplus.

It is interesting to note in connection a change in view in North Dakota. Whereas a few years ago a large number of political leaders and followers voiced a demand for the state government to cure the agrarian ills the demand now is that the national government cure these ills. They finally came to the conclusion that the state government could not do what they wished. In their demands upon Congress they are met by a school of thought which holds the national government is just as ineffective—that the condition is a world condition, cannot be cured by legislation and can only be cured by gradual readjustment of economic conditions.

The illness of President Harding makes improbable the calling of an extra session of Congress. Press dispatches before his illness hinted that the chief executive did not favor the idea. In fact, the belief was expressed by writers when President Harding decided to take his long trip that he was moved to do so in the belief that a long rest from political discussions and sessions of Congress would prove of great value to the country in its readjustment period.

Everyone in the Northwest realizes that incalculable benefit would result from any action to restore agriculture to a high plane. And no one can gainsay the fact that it is the duty of the nation's leaders to adopt any means not inconsistent with the fundamental laws to improve conditions.

EDISON
Edison's discoveries now have over 15 billion dollars of capital invested in them industrially. Putting it another way, that much money is being employed keeping his ideas at work, applying them for the good of Americans. Further big investment in other countries.

In view of this, how much money should Edison have as reward? It's rather a "poser" for the man who believes that a million dollars is too much for any one. As is true with all of us, however, Edison's ideas are not really his, they come from somewhere out in the invisible, he's merely the radio receiver, also the amplifier and loud speaker.

REWARD
He finds a purse containing $30.30, returns it to its owner and gets $5 reward. This experience happens to Giuseppe Euflipo, trackwalker for the Boston Elevated. At any rate, he luckily was not charged for finding it.

Speaking of the rewards we get for services rendered in this life: Dr. Ivan Petrovich Pavlov, Russian, winner of the Nobel Prize for medicine in 1904, recently had his pockets picked of his $2000 bankroll in the Grand Central Terminal, New York City. Emerson's law of compensation occasionally seems to get short-circuited.

PRICES
Steel prices continue their "softening" tendency. Pig iron, at $28.27 a ton f. o. b. Pittsburgh, is $7.50 a ton cheaper than it was last September 30. Prices of the eight leading steel products are averaging $2.56 a ton less than they were at the beginning of May.

Steel and wheat prices are the leaders of general prices. The situation resembles a train with the cars going uphill and the double-header locomotives over the crest and started downhill. The engines, of course, may back up.

FLUNKERS
Sixteen out of every 100 students flunk at Northwestern University's College of Liberal Arts. But Professor Howard finds the flunkers average as high in intelligence as ones who pass their examination. Like life in general, success is as much (or more) a matter of application and work as of ability.

Regarding the college flunkers: Judgment must be reserved until later in life when some of them may outdistance the star students of college days.

Failure can be an incident, not a permanent decision, the same as an army may lose many battles and still win the war.

BANANAS
"Yes, we have no bananas," is grammatically correct, says Professor Irving Fisher of Yale. Solemnly analyzing this important matter, he comments: "It is correct upon a certain hypothesis. It is misleading at times, but it is technically correct in answer to the question, 'Do you have no bananas?'"

We refer, to Dr. Fisher, the southern negro lines: "I ain't asking you, 'Ain't you is.' I asking you, 'Ain't you ain't.'"

TURKEY AFTER LAUSANNE
Turkey ends twelve consecutive years of war with the signing of the treaty at Lausanne on Tuesday last. She was at war for three years before the breaking out of the World war, with very limited intervals of peace. Certainly she needs peace; and the peace which will follow this treaty will give the Turks a breathing spell.

Turkey has lost much by the wars which she entered so wilfully. Arabia, Palestine, Mesopotamia and Syria are Turkish no longer. The status of these is known, and the Star and Crescent has been succeeded by other banners. She has lost in Europe much of the hinterland of Constantinople. Her losses in men, in money and general development are quite beyond computation.

And yet Turkey survives. She seems victorious. That idea can only be held by those who think of her as she was at her worst during the war and not as she was when the fighting began. It is true that Turkey is not so broken as the armistice left her, that she has made a partial recovery since, but she is by no means the Turkey of 1911, territorially speaking.

Consider her status. She gets back Constantinople. But she has had that city for ages. And is it an advantage that the capital of Turkey shall be under the guns of Western powers? It is agreed that the straits shall be open at all times to ships of war and peace of all nations. Is this a Turkish gain? As to the freedom of the Turkish capital, no doubt the Turkish thought is that it can control these passages when there is need, with a few guns of torpedoes, and that no paper stipulation can hinder this.

The shaven and shorn Turks made, however, certain definite gains in the direction of free sovereignty. All capitulations are wiped out. The Turk is to be master in his own house, however humble. Then they forced a monstrous thing upon the jangling Allies. Constantinople has a large Greek population, which has lived there in part even before the Turks came.

These wretched men must leave Turkey, their wicked native land, in which they are aliens. And then, to offset, Turks in the provinces of Greece must pack up and go into Turkey leaving behind them lands cultivated by them and their ancestors for hundreds of years. Such is the bargain. But after all, the Turkey of today is a weaker Turkey by far than the Turkey of 1911. It behooves her to be on good behavior hereafter. Some day the Western nations will cease to protect her through their mutual rivalries.—Duluth Herald.

THE EXTRA SESSION TALK
The Country has been tremendously moved by the election of Magnus Johnson to the Senate, moving out of the office of the Minnesota legislature. One can hardly take up any American newspaper nowadays without finding some discussion or reference, direct or indirect, to the overtone and what it may presage in the political developments of tomorrow.

One of the reactions has taken the form of a demand for an immediate extra session of Congress. Senator Brookhart returns from his unprecedented feat of having thoroughly investigated fifteen European countries in ten weeks, and having arrived at inconclusive conclusions about what is the matter with the world and how to fix things up. The first item in his program is an extra session. And he adds menacingly that if the President fails to call one, he and a few of his big men go over to the White House and help them organize the Houses of Congress when they do meet.

In view of the even balance of parties in Congress there is small chance that Congress would be able to do anything decisive if it did meet, or even that it will be able to accomplish positive action, when it gathers in regular session next December. Senator Brookhart's threat is, therefore, empty one. The organization of the Houses, whether it is Republican or Democratic, will not amount to very much, except to the prospective officeholders. The present Congress will probably be in a firm deadlock during most of its life.

Even Senator La Follette, on the eve of departing for Europe, conceded that an extra session would accomplish nothing.

Recently help came to the extra-sessioners from Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, who wants Congress called together to take immediate action on the recommendations of the Coal Commission. He fears that otherwise New England is in for another winter of coal famine. He wants the President authorized by Congress to take over the anthracite mines and operate them, and to oversee the distribution of the coal, in the event of a emergency.

There is more merit in this contention, especially now that the miners and operators have failed to get together and a strike in the anthracite fields now impends. In any event it will take the actual and imminent menace of coal famine to persuade Congress to do anything. Any less cost of action will see Congress die up in the tightest of deadlocks.—Minneapolis Journal.

Complete with operating theater, kitchen and saloon, a derelict hospital train in Mesopotamia was seen by a native sheik as a Turkish bath.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON
DEAR SYD:
You can imagine, old chap, how your letter messed up my emotions as well as my nerves.
I don't wonder you felt like morn-ing-izing a little. It's a queer thing that is happening to me just at present, isn't it? And yet I expect, if we only knew it and could look into the hearts and minds of our friends and acquaintances, we would find there are just as many secret places where they have hidden away things they hardly confessed to themselves, as we have in ours.

THE YELLOW SEVEN.
The Bronze Jar
By Edmund Snell.
NEA Service, Inc. 1923

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Monica Viney, beautiful widow, lives with her brother, Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Josselson, British North Borneo. Peter Pennington is hired by the government to apprehend Chai-Hung, leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Lien-Yin, former agent of Chai-Hung, comes to Captain Hewitt with a great bronze jar which he declares contains the ashes of Chai-Hung. Hewitt doubts the report of Chai-Hung's death.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY
He placed the jar carefully on a corner of the desk.
"I'm sorry, Jack," she said wearily. "I didn't want to disturb you, but the sheer loneliness of the place is getting on my nerves. I just had to come and push forward. I'm the kitten, freeing itself with an effort, began chasing a giant cockroach across the floor."
"You've got a touch of fever," suggested Hewitt sympathetically. "Better take a stiff dose of quinine and turn in."
She smiled faintly.
"I don't think it's fever. It's this awful uncertainty. I'm worried about Mr. Pennington. He's been on the island too long. The natives must be plotting a revolt. I haven't slept for nights. I've been picturing him wandering through the jungle on this wild-goose-chase for that creature's tomb, with the followers of Chai-Hung on his track."
The Commissioner perched himself on the table.
"He'll come back all right," he declared, aware all the time of a certain unaccountable business in his throat. "Pennington always does." Her gaze traveled to the bronze jar.
"Is that the thing?" she demanded dully.
Hewitt nodded.
She left her chair and crept forward, half-fearfully, her hands outstretched in front of her. Presently she stood before the jar, looking wistfully down at it.
"And to think—that everything depends on that!—everything, at least, that matters!"
The Commissioner jerked up his head and stared hard at the wall in front of him. He did not want to discover how Monica knew, but the very fact that she did know startled him. In the silence that followed, he caught the measured tread of the sentry on duty outside, the insistent hum of nocturnal insects, the patter of the absurd kitten across the boards. On a tray by the bookshelf there reposed a decanter and a glass. He went over to it and poured out a stiff tot.
She took it unquestionably, making a wry face as the spirit burnt her throat.
"So—Pennington does matter?" he said quietly.
The warm blood mounted to her cheeks.
"Of course."
"I'm glad of that."
He was placing the glass back on the tray when he realized that his sister had followed him across the room.
"Must we keep that wretched jar here? Can't you just look in—to make sure—and send it back to them again?"
He shook his head and laughed to dispel a certain uncomfortable inward feeling that Monica's present mood inspired.
"The devil of it," he told her. "I can't find out if it works."
She surveyed him for some moments, her head on one side.
"Why don't you send for a blacksmith—or somebody—and force it open?"
"I should scarcely like to do that. You see, it wouldn't be policy to provoke any further unpleasantness by deliberately committing sacrilege."
"He looked down at his watch. "Time we got to bed. Lien-Yin's coming round in the morning—and then we shall know all about it."
She clutched at his sleeve.
"Jack, I can't sleep here with that thing in the house. I've been feeling perfectly horrible ever since they brought it here. You call it nerves, I know, but I've seen things at the window."
"What sort of things?"
"I can't quite explain. Just vague, shadowy objects. That was what made me come to you. I could have sworn I heard them breathing and once—for a fraction of a second—two hands—like claws—reached on the sill. I should have gone mad if I had stayed."
In spite of himself, the Commissioner glanced at the wide open aperture through which the cool night air filtered. He felt a chill upon nothing but the rectangular patch of blackness she had expected to see. He walked deliberately to it and tossed the end of his cigar into the garden.
"There is nothing there, you see," he declared. "I tell you what it is, Monica. You're worrying too much about young Pennington, and you want a holiday. If you take my advice, you'll get married as soon as he comes back—and get him to take you for a long sea trip."
"Aren't you looking rather far ahead?" said Monica demurely. "You forget—he hasn't asked me yet!"
The Commissioner tapped the bronze jar with his finger nail. "No, but he will as soon as I show him that. He was only waiting for proof that our enemy was dead."
She came slowly back toward the urn.
"Proof," she echoed in a voice so low that it was scarcely audible. "I wonder if this clumsy thing proves anything. For all we know—it may be empty."
In which case," smiled her brother, "there's nothing on earth to prevent us going to bed."
But Monica was not listening. She was passing her fingers over the metal surface.
"Fancy that band has something to do with it—the band with the four little gold studs!"
She held her thumb poised over the nearest of the four gold knobs. It hovered for a second—a bare half-inch from the metal, and then—a form plunged wildly through the open window, landed in a crouching attitude on the bare boards, and, extending a lean arm, thrust her body into the room.
The bronze jar toppled awkwardly and rolled to the floor, where the Siamese kitten fell upon it in a frenzy of delight. Hewitt wrenched open the drawer in which his automatic lay, and Monica, her eyes wide open with terror, leant helplessly against the wall, gazing into the scared, swart face of a Chinaman. The intruder's greasy coat was torn and weather-stained, his feet were crusted with sandals of plated straw, and his features wore an expression that she did not altogether understand.
"Put them up!" said the Commissioner coldly, and the celestial, complying readily, bestowed on the astonished Hewitt a broad, boyish grin.
"Don't keep me like this for long," came the familiar, measured drawl of Chinese Pennington. "I've got Lien-Yin traced like a chicken out-side, and I'm as hungry as a hunter!"
The Commissioner tossed his weapon back into the drawer in disgust. "Look here, old son," he complained. "What the deuce d'you mean by giving us shocks like this?"
The scarecrow produced a rubber pouch and began rolling himself a cigaret.
"I'm sorry if I hurt you, Mrs. Viney, only I didn't like to see you flinching about with that jar."
"I wanted to see what was inside." She has recovered from the surprise his sudden entry had given her. Her cheeks were flushed and the folds of the kimono at her bosom rose and fell in tune with her quick breathing.
Pennington ran his lower lip along the gummed edge of the paper and looked across at the Commissioner. "What did you suppose was inside?"
He flung out the words like a challenge.
"The ashes of our deeply-lamented friend—Chai-Hung."
The younger man surveyed him pityingly.
"The ashes of fiddle-sticks! Chai-Hung—of all men—starting out on a new line—and arranging to be cremated! Doesn't sound very probable, does it? And yet I suppose even I might have been deceived by this devilishly plausible story—if they hadn't chosen me to be one of the bearers!"
"Good Lord!"
Hewitt passed a clammy hand over his forehead.
Suddenly Monica uttered a little scream and pointed wildly to the floor. The Siamese kitten that had been playing with the bronze urn was lying on its back, kicking spasmodically. The movements ceased abruptly, and before the Commissioner could reach it, the wretched creature was dead. More amazing still, the bronze jar lay open, its gaping mouth, dark and hollow like a tunnel, displaying no sign of the remains Hewitt had expected to see.
"Poisoned!" said the Commissioner hoarsely. "Poor little devil!"
She was playing with the gold stud, the Siamese kitten's paw. "Mr. Pennington, don't touch that!"
"I do! I knew it before I came in. I've been hanging around here all evening, trying to give Lien-Yin the slip and prevent you both making fools of yourselves."
He turned the jar with his foot and all three recoiled in horror.
There flattered out on to the floor a strip of pasteboard. By a freak of chance, it fell face-upward, showing several blank dots on a vivid yellow ground—the dread sign of the Yellow Seven!
The Commissioner was the first to move.
"Look here, Pennington," he shouted, "where's this fellow Lien-Yin?"
The other nodded toward the door. "Your man's got him—but there. D'you want to see him?"
"I want to make certain he doesn't get away."
He fumbled with something in the drawer again and made for the veranda.
Monica looked up at Pennington, and there were tears in her eyes.
"I'm heart-broken about Peter," she said softly, "but I'm awfully grateful to you for what you did."
"My dear Mrs. Viney," protested Pennington, screwing up his eyes. "For heaven's sake, don't call her Monica!"
"Monica!" bawled the Commissioner over his shoulder. He went out, slamming the door after him.
"Island W." the next episode of this gripping series, will start in our next issue.

Brains May Start With a Handicap, Says Woman Artist, But They're Bound to Finish Ahead in Race With Beauty

BY MARIAN HALE
NEA Service Writer
New York, Aug. 1.-In the fight for woman suffrage, Betsy Graves Rayneau, of the most earnest and interesting leaders. Today she is quite as distinct a personality in the artistic world. Her portraits are exhibited at the most exclusive Fifth Avenue art galleries, and celebrities flock to her studio.

"They're so different," critics say of her oil studies.

"That's because I try to make each portrait a character study," she told me. "I try to do with a brush what Theodore Dreiser does with words. I study my sitters as if I were going to write about them instead of paint them. That's the reason I care very little for doing merely pretty women."

"Just putting a pink and white skin and a rosybud mouth on canvas doesn't interest me at all. I'd rather paint disappointment, or bitterness, or craftiness, or any personal quality which is a definite attribute of character and may be the very thing that detracts from conventional beauty or regularity."

Brains With Beauty
That started us talking about the modern type of woman that is being developed by the complex existence of today.

"As women become more intellectual, they should improve in looks," Mrs. Rayneau averred. "Brains actually mean a better skull formation, and I believe men will acquire a taste for intelligent women. But after all, whatever type women progress to or revert to, men will always have to accept them as they are. They are so necessary to the race, no matter what they become."

"The beautiful woman will always have the advantage at the start, and the brainy one at the finish."

"I have found that most beautiful women were not intellectual, not because they didn't have brains, but because they did not have to. They could get all the excitement they desire without exerting themselves for it."

Personality Instead
"The woman, however, who looks into her mirror and sees that her high nose, Italian eyes, English chin and German figure form a composite type that has no claim to beauty and who admits frankly that since there isn't much to attract men with on the outside she'd better develop the inside of her head is the one that grows a personality."

"And she's apt to get more interesting as the beauty deteriorates."

Mrs. Rayneau is a thorough feminist and believes in women and their possibilities. She believes they have everything now but recognition.

"And when women can get a slant on life that is not purely emotional, or that is a combination of intellect and emotion, with the intellect holding the emotions down where they should be, they will force men to recognize their worth and give them their rights in the artistic world," she concludes.

Girl Promises to Become Ideal of Womanhood

by NEA Service
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.-Lucine Cuny, 16-year-old high school student here, is an earnest girl that promises to develop into the ideal of womanhood in later years.

For, already, Lucine draws the respect and envy of her comrades. She's an athlete and a heroine - and her head isn't turned a bit, either.

Not ten days after Lucine had been promoted with a Junior Red Cross life-saving medal, this bright-eyed little girl saved a schoolmate from drowning in the Detroit River.

Miss Cuny, with a group of friends, was bathing at Grosse Isle, a summering place near here, when one of her companions, a 15-year-old boy, got beyond his depth and was being carried downstream by the swift current. Without hesitating Miss Cuny went after him.

Putting into practice the lessons she had learned in the swimming class at school, she grasped him across the chest and dragged him into shore. But only after a struggle in which the boy, in his delirium, made an effort to choke her.

Teachers and pupils of the high school are now asking a Carnegie life-saving medal for her.

Lucine expects to pass the summer as a lifeguard and instructor at a nearby summer camp for girls. Besides being an expert swimmer, Miss Cuny plays basketball, indoor baseball and is a splendid high jumper on the track team.

BOTH LEAGUE LEADERS LOSE THEIR GAMES

New York Yankees Lost in Spite of Babe Ruth's 25th Homer of Season

CINCINNATI WINNER

(Chicago, Aug. 3.—Both league leading New York teams met defeat yesterday. The Cleveland Americans beat the Yankees in the opening game of their series in New York, 5 to 4, despite the fact that Babe Ruth hit his 25th home run of the season with Whitey Witt running around one base ahead of him. The Pittsburgh Nationals, playing in Pittsburgh, beat the Giants, 2 to 1.

The Brooklyn Nationals dropped games to the Cardinals in St. Louis, one of which was an extra length contest, 11 to 10, and 7 to 6. The second game went 14 innings.

In Chicago the Cubs trimmed the Boston Nationals, 3 to 2, in a slow game. Three of the Cubs' runs were homers, by Alexander, Miller and Stutz. St. Louis took another double-header from Philadelphia in the Quaker City, winning 2 to 0, and 3 to 3. The Athletics have now lost 10 games in a row.

The Chicago Americans and the Red Sox divided honors in Boston, Chicago winning the first game, 4 to 2, in 11 innings and the home team taking the second, 7 to 3.

Robertson held Boston to six hits in the first game and Chicago scored two runs in the 11th without the aid of a single.

In Cincinnati the Reds trimmed Philadelphia, 5 to 3. The visitors pounded out 11 hits, but the fast fielding by the home team kept down the score.

The Detroit-Washington game was called on account of rain.

MINOT WINS GAME BY RALLY

Valley City, N. D., Aug. 2.—A fighting rally in the ninth inning failed by one score to take the game here yesterday for Valley City and Minot won 7 to 6. Kieffer, Valley City third sacker had a hitting streak and knocked out four hits in five trips to the plate, scoring three runs.

After Minot knocked Dunn out of the box in the fourth, Prodniski went in and held them down, finishing well. Minot scored one in the first, fourth, sixth and eighth and brought in three in the third. Valley City managed to score one in the second, two in the third, and three in their ninth inning attempt to win.

WOULD MEET THOR JENSON

Clarence Abrahamson objects to Thor Jensen of Bismarck being called middleweight wrestling champion world.

While Crippl trained his eye by playing tennis, Dundee played nine holes of golf each day to train his eye for his bout with Crippl for the featherweight championship of the world.

Among the girls in the annual beauty parade at Atlantic City will be Polly Walker. She will be "Miss Congo Island," having won the competition against the other beauty beauties at the New York resort.

of North Dakota, Abrahamson says he is.

"I've been wrestling hard and steady all summer and in good shape. Have had 11 matches and lost two and they to men who outweighed me," says Abrahamson in a letter to The Tribune.

"Now I am, and have been, recognized as champion of this state for the past three years and would like nothing better than a match with Mr. Jensen at any time or place."

Baseball will go on as usual in Bismarck during August.

Maurice McNight, utility man on the Minot baseball team, will replace Tom Shanley as field manager, and new pitchers will be added to the Bismarck team.

This was the announcement this afternoon of V. N. Dreabach, secretary of the club. While yesterday it was stated the local management would come to handle the club, but formal meetings were held last night and today at noon arrangements were completed for keeping the team. Several local business men will guarantee the team expenses. It is probable that several methods will be used to assist the association caring for the finances.

McNight, manager of the Minot club, came here last night and revived the sinking hopes of baseball fans.

McNight, who is to assume the management of the team, has been playing third base for Minot when Walters pitched and center-field at other times. He was tried out two games by the New York Giants and played one season with the Baltimore International League club. Hester said, who recommended him as an experienced baseball player.

Denison, the big right-hand pitcher of Minot, may also come to the Bismarck club and the local association has strings on the matter. It is expected that Shanley will continue on second base for Bismarck.

THROCKMORTON WINS CONTEST

Jamestown, Aug. 2.—Throckmorton pitched good ball for Bismarck last evening, while the visitors hit Jamestown's pitchers hard. The score was 12 to 1.

Score by innings:
Bismarck..... 203 500 200—12-4-8
Jamestown..... 000 003 100—4-3-4

Batteries: Throckmorton and Dougan. Enger, Walker, Wingfield and Carlson, Umpire Funk.

CHAMPS WILL RISK TITLES

New York, Aug. 2.—Two world's champions will appear in the ring in West New York in a 12-round no-decision contest. Mike McGuffey, who took the world's light heavyweight championship by outpunching Battling Siki in Dublin last St. Patrick's Day, will meet Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia with whom he boxed eight rounds recently. In a first match McGuffey lost to Loughran, but after criticism thought the Philadelphia had shaded the champion.

The other title holder to fight tonight is Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, who will meet Knockout Joe O'Donnell of Philadelphia.

GREAT CORN CROP IS SEEN IN NO. DAKOTA

Flax and Durum Wheat Also Rank High While Rust Damages Marquis Wheat

REPORTS OF CO. AGENTS

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 2.—While wheat throughout North Dakota has been damaged by black stem rust, flax is in fine condition, durum wheat unaffected and the state will have one of the greatest corn and potato crops in its history, according to reports of county agents to the North Dakota Extension Division for the period ending last Saturday.

In Red River valley counties, the yield of wheat will range from 6 to 8 bushels, according to the reports, black stem rust and hot weather running neck and neck as damage factors. In the northern and central part of the state west of the Valley counties, drought has been the principal damage factor, ably seconded by rust, while in the balance of the state, black stem rust has been the most important reducing agent.

Wheat prospects were reported good to excellent in western North Dakota until a week ago, but since that time black rust has developed very rapidly, and prospects there have been reduced from 25 to 50 percent by this disease, the agents report. Grasshoppers are also increasing in numbers and causing heavy damage in some localities.

Harvesting is general in nearly every district, with about 90 percent of the rye crop cut at the present time. Due to low market prices, many fields of rye and wheat which might normally pay the bare cost of harvesting are being left in the field. Flax is in good condition and early planted fields are beginning to mature. Pigeon grass is causing considerable damage to late fields, however. Rain is badly needed, particularly in the north central part of the state, for flax and potatoes. Indications are that potatoes will make only a fair crop, with some areas showing several of the heavy-producing varieties in the Red River valley and in the south central part of the state.

Prospects for feed crops in general are excellent. The corn crop is outstanding, not only in yield, but in report being received, while many counties are predicting record-breaking yields. Oats are in slightly better average condition than barley, and both crops promise a fair yield. Flax is in good condition and early planted fields are beginning to mature. Pigeon grass is causing considerable damage to late fields, however. Rain is badly needed, particularly in the north central part of the state, for flax and potatoes. Indications are that potatoes will make only a fair crop, with some areas showing several of the heavy-producing varieties in the Red River valley and in the south central part of the state.

Labor shortages are reported in several counties, but apparently the situation is not serious nor statewide. Harvest wages in most counties are $3 per day. Individual reports from the various county extension agents for the period ending last Saturday follow:

CASS—"Harvesting of wheat is general and the crop is poor due to the black stem rust and the hot weather damage. Rye harvest is finished, and the crop is very thin. Corn is in excellent condition, and potatoes are good, with some fields showing thin stands due to the damage from water and disease. Early sown flax is in excellent condition, and is starting to turn. Medium and late sown flax is weedy, containing considerable pigeon grass, and several fields have been mowed or plowed. Oats and barley are in good condition."—Wm. Guy, Fargo.

BARNES—"Rye harvest is finished, and cutting of wheat was general during the week. The crop is in fair condition. Corn is making excellent growth, and flax, barley, oats and potatoes are looking good. Some barley has been cut. Alfalfa and sweet clover fields are not ready for the second cutting of hay. There were two general rains during the week."—T. X. Calnan, Valley City.

RICHLAND—"Cutting of all small grains with the exception of flax is general in the county. Rust and hot weather have done considerable damage very materially, with the exception of early sown wheat. Indications are that the average yield for the county will not exceed 6 bushels per acre. Considerable damage has been caused to potatoes by heavy rains drowning out fields. In some localities the damage from this cause ranges up to 100 percent, while the average for the county is 25 percent. Otherwise potatoes are in good condition. Corn will make the best crop in the county, and oats will also make a good crop."—R. C. Dynes, Wahpeton.

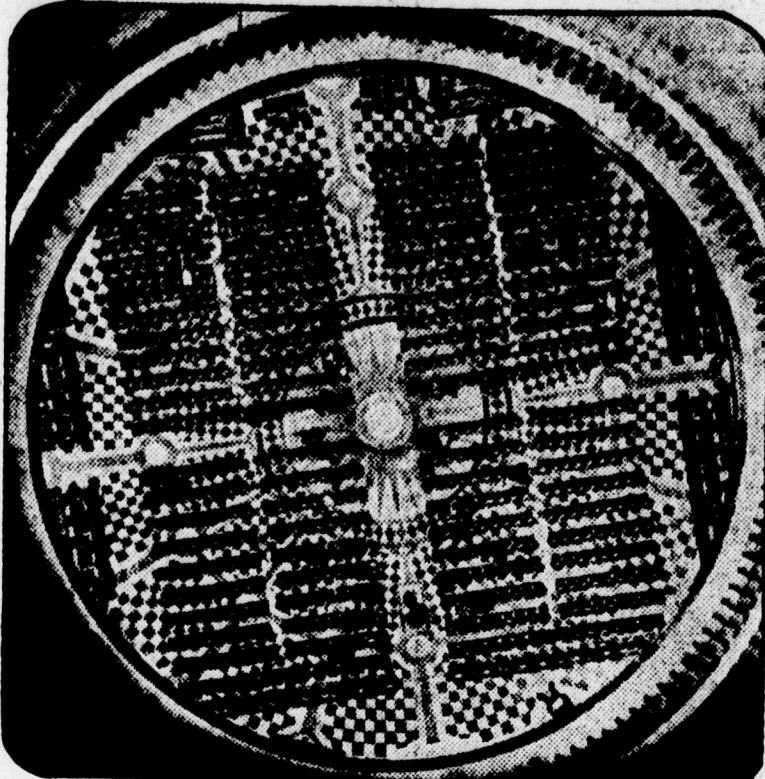

FOSTER—"Wheat and oats are badly rusted, and a good many fields of wheat will not pay the cost of cutting. Harvesting of rye is about finished, and some fields of oats and wheat are being cut at present. A fair flax crop is indicated with some fields overcome by pigeon grass. Corn is making excellent growth, and potatoes show a good growth of vine, but not much tuber development. Pastures are in fair shape, and the second crop of alfalfa is starting to blossom."—C. L. Carrington.

RAMSEY—"Harvesting of rye is nearly finished. A small amount of wheat has been cut and cutting of barley and oats is well under way. Considerable damage will be caused to late wheat by rust, which has developed rapidly during the past week. Corn and potatoes are in good condition, but together with flax are in need of rain. Second crops of alfalfa and sweet clover are making slow progress, due to lack of moisture."—A. M. Challey, Devils Lake.

NELSON—"Black stem rust is causing great damage to the wheat crop. Harvesting of the thin crop of rye is on in full swing. A severe wind and rain storm swept the county, damaging of farm buildings."—Th. T. Kristjanson, Lakota.

GRAND FORKS—"Great damage has been caused to the crop by rust and extreme heat, and indications are that the yield of wheat will average 5 bushels for the county. Some early wheat has been harvested, and cutting will be general next week. Winter wheat is in good condition."—C. B. Amode, Bottineau.

Guess Again; It's Not a Lens

Looks like a slide under a microscope, doesn't it? It's a view of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, taken from the dome 300 feet above the congregation.

rye has all been cut, and is a poor crop generally. Some fields will not pay the cost of harvesting and threshing. Oats and barley will give a fair crop, and the cutting of these grains was general during the week. The fields contain a large amount of wild oats, however. Corn continues to make splendid progress, and potatoes are in good condition, with many thin stands. Pastures were benefited by recent rains. The second cutting of alfalfa has been made."—D. B. Morris, Grand Forks.

LAUREL—"Harvesting is general and a few farmers have already threshed rye, securing low yields of poor quality grain. Heavy rains Wednesday and Saturday delayed work and injured grain. The wheat crop is uneven due to heat, rust, and black chaff damage. Early sown fields of corn are in the roasting ear stage, and the crop is in excellent condition. Potatoes are doing well, with good indications of a heavy yield."—C. H. Pollock, LaMoure.

KIDDER—"Black stem rust is damaging the wheat crop in several localities, and drought has also caused damage in a small area. Harvesting of rye is finished and some barley is being cut, also a few fields of flax and a considerable amount of oats. The corn crop is in good condition and potatoes are good, with the exception of fields damaged by insects."—T. R. Andrus, Steele.

STUTSMAN—"Black stem rust is doing serious damage to late sown marquis wheat, and many fields will not pay the expense of cutting and threshing. Harvesting of rye is finished and most of the barley and some of the early oats are out. Harvesting of rye and marquis wheat is also under way. Rye will make about half a crop. Flax is in excellent condition, and corn and potatoes are good."—R. S. Goodhue, Jamestown.

WELLS—"Harvesting is general in the county, due to sudden ripening of the grain crop caused by wheat and dry weather. Present indications are that 20 percent of the crop will not be cut, due to the short straw. Corn and potatoes are making excellent progress, and sweet clover fields are still furnishing an abundance of feed."—E. W. Vancura, Pesaden.

PEMBINA—"Farmers declare the 1923 wheat crop will be the poorest ever raised in the county, with about a six-bushel average yield indicated for the period. Heat and rust caused the loss, and many fields will not be harvested. Some farmers have even plowed under good stands due to low prices. Harvesting of wheat has commenced, also barley and oats, while cutting of rye is about finished. The first report of threshing in the county was from the north. Barley is very light but oats will make a good crop. Potatoes are in need of rain. Some fields are excellent and others poor and the general condition is below average for this date. The corn crop is in excellent condition and promises the best yield and highest crop in history. With favorable weather the crop will be out of danger from frost August 20th. Hot weather prevailed during the week with no rain."—E. G. Parizek, Cavalier.

CAVALIER—"Wheat has been damaged to a large extent during the past week by rust, particularly Marquis. Durums show little infection at this time. The rye crop is harvested and very light. Oats and barley are in good condition. Corn is making excellent growth and promises a fine crop if there are no early frosts. Potatoes are in need of rain and will give a light crop. Ideal weather has prevailed for hay and a large amount of native and tame hay is being put up this year."—W. L. Johns, Langdon.

TOWNER—"Cool weather during the week improved crop prospects somewhat, but black rust has caused a large amount of damage to the wheat crop, particularly in the northern two-thirds of the county. Harvesting of wheat will start early next week. Flax continues to come along in good condition. Considerable damage has been caused to potatoes by bugs. Sweet clover and alfalfa are doing well, but native pastures are all gone. The wheat straw worm was found in a field at Bismarck, and was causing some damage and has also been reported in fields north of that district. A large number of harvest hands are needed."—Jay W. Lawton, Cando.

BOTTINEAU—"Marquis wheat is falling below expectations due to black stem rust and heat. Durum and Marquis varieties are doing fairly well. Oats, barley and potatoes are in fair condition but the rye crop is very poor. Corn is making excellent growth. Alfalfa, sweet clover and pastures are in fine shape. If the rust continues to develop for another week a large number of wheat will not be cut. Kubanka, Pollack and D-D Durums seem to be in excellent condition. Early sown Kota was damaged by heat."—C. B. Amode, Bottineau.

GRAND FORKS—"Great damage has been caused to the crop by rust and extreme heat, and indications are that the yield of wheat will average 5 bushels for the county. Some early wheat has been harvested, and cutting will be general next week. Winter wheat is in good condition."—C. B. Amode, Bottineau.

GRAND FORKS—"Great damage has been caused to the crop by rust and extreme heat, and indications are that the yield of wheat will average 5 bushels for the county. Some early wheat has been harvested, and cutting will be general next week. Winter wheat is in good condition."—C. B. Amode, Bottineau.

ing made. Pastures are in excellent condition. Grasshoppers are causing considerable damage to oats and flax in the eastern part of the county."—G. C. Poe, Beulah.

MORTON—"Black stem rust will cause considerable damage to both early and late wheat. Harvesting is on in full swing and labor is needed. Second cuttings of alfalfa and sweet clover are being made. Ground squirrels and pocket gophers are causing some damage."—Geo. H. Hest, Mandan.

GRANT—"Damage from black stem rust will decrease wheat yields 50 percent and it is doubtful if some fields will be worth harvesting. Oats, barley, flax and corn are making excellent growth and give promise of good crops. Harvesting of rye and wheat has started. The second cutting of sweet clover is being made and alfalfa is in full bloom."—R. C. Newcomer, Carson.

ADAMS—"Black stem rust is general throughout the county and all late wheat will be severely damaged. Bearded wheats are in good condition and are filling well. Some wheat fields are being cut for hay as farmers figure that it will not pay to use twine on them. Pastures and meadows are in good condition and many fields of alfalfa are being cut for the second time."—P. J. Gwyther, Hettinger.

SLOPE—"Rust developed very rapidly during the past week and crop prospects were reduced 25 percent. Harvesting of rye and wheat is under way. Dry weather, hot winds and heavy dews occurred during the week. Pastures and meadows are drying up."—Chas. Eastgate, Amidon.

WARD—"Hot, sultry weather prevailed during the week, providing ideal conditions for rust which has developed to the point where it will cause severe damage. Rye harvest is three-fourths finished and cutting of early oats, barley and a few wheat fields has commenced. A few flax fields are beginning to turn and seem to be in good condition. Potato prospects are disappointing, with light stands in many fields, particularly those planted late. Potato bugs have caused considerable damage ranging from 25 to 75 percent."—John Husby, Minot.

BURKE—"Marked reductions in crop prospects have occurred during the past week due to hot weather, rust and black chaff damage. Saw fly infestation running as high as 80 percent is present in all fields of hard wheat inspected and has already caused some damage by breaking over the straw. Rye harvest is about finished and some of the poor fields will not be cut. Harvesting of wheat will start August 3 and will be general about a week after the date. Oats will make a good crop and corn is the best in years."—Karl Swanson, Bowbells.

MONTREAL—"About 40 percent of the rye has been harvested and the crop is very light. Due to heat and dry weather, wheat, oats and barley are ripening rapidly and harvesting of early fields will begin next week. Oats and barley are generally very good and promise a good yield. Wheat is spotted and it is questionable if the county will average more than 10 bushels, although the yield will be considerably higher in some localities. Flax is making a splendid crop and early fields are beginning to turn. Corn in making wonderful headway. Potatoes are in need of rain and the fields have been damaged by bugs. Pasture and meadows are generally in good condition."—A. J. Bredvold, Stanley.

RECEIVERSHIP OF EQUITY CO. IS DISSOLVED

Proceedings Started Irregularly, Judge Engliert Holds in Fargo Case

Fargo, Aug. 2.—Fluctuating fortunes of the Equity Cooperative Packing Company took a new turn this morning when Judge M. J. Engliert of Valley City in district court here dissolved the temporary receivership and ordered all property in the hands of temporary receiver, John Martin, returned to the company.

Judge Engliert based his decision on the ground that the receivership proceedings were irregularly started, after a hearing on an order to show cause why the temporary receivership should not be made permanent.

The court cited that petitioners had complained only against one officer, President C. W. Reichert of the company and no attempt was made to join as defendants other officers and directors of the company in the action which charged mismanagement.

It was the opinion of the court that the remedy in the case, if any, lay with the stockholders who could retain ouster proceedings against officers when mismanagement was charged. A. T. Faber, Mandan attorney, appeared with Harry Laskowski, Fargo, as counsel for C. W. Reichert, John Burke and U. L. Burdick, Fargo attorneys, appeared for the petitioners, and they did not know whether they would begin another action.

It is common knowledge in the steel industry that Studebaker uses only the highest grades of the finest steels. And the same is true of the electrical equipment, instruments, bearings, batteries, upholstery, finishing paints, tires and accessories used in Studebaker cars.

It is equally well known that Studebaker, with $90,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plant facilities, is unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give maximum intrinsic value for a given price.

Produced under these favorable conditions, the 1924 Studebakers are distinctly the finest cars and greatest values Studebaker ever offered.

The public has placed its confidence in Studebaker by accepting these facts, supported by the performance of Studebaker cars in owners' use. Studebaker never cheapens quality to meet competition. The name Studebaker stands for satisfaction and service.
